

Wisconsin Surgical Society
Conference Chair
Jed Calata, MD, FACS

Dr. Calata is a board certified colon and rectal surgeon with expertise in colorectal and minimally invasive surgery, inflammatory bowel disease, fecal incontinence and anorectal disorders. A graduate with honors from Saint Joseph's University, Dr. Calata went on to pursue his doctorate of medicine at Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia. He completed his general surgery residency training at the University of Illinois at Chicago and his colon and rectal surgical fellowship training at the John H. Stroger, Jr. Hospital of Cook County.

With a passion for both science and service, this devoted physician enjoys all aspects of medicine - teaching, outreach, and improving the quality of life for patients and communities. Dr. Calata's service efforts have involved traveling to El Salvador, Dominican Republic and the villages around Rwanda to help improve health resources and nutrition. He has also been the recipient of multiple honors and awards, specifically for his role as an educator.

Dr. Calata is currently seeing patients at the Milwaukee VA Medical Center and at Froedtert & MCW. He brings an exuberance to the Division of Colorectal Surgery striving to provide the highest quality care using sound surgical decision-making and the newest surgical techniques and technologies. Although pleased to have followed his parents' footsteps into a career in medicine, when Dr. Calata is not caring for others he enjoys gourmet cooking and cuisine, traveling, recreational soccer, and cheering for his favorite sports teams.
